Countering Radicalisation and Terrorism

VS Sripal

The rise of extremist ideologies and the spread of radicalisation have emerged as critical challenges for governments and societies around the world. The use of violence to achieve political or ideological goals has resulted in tragic consequences, and the threat of terrorism continues to loom large. In response, many countries have developed policies and strategies to counter radicalisation and prevent the spread of extremist ideologies. This book explores the concept of counter-radicalisation and the various approaches taken by governments, civil society organizations, and other actors to address this complex challenge. It examines the underlying causes of radicalisation, the factors that contribute to its spread, and the strategies that have been developed to prevent it. This book will be of interest to policymakers, practitioners, scholars, and students who seek a deeper understanding of the challenges and opportunities involved in countering radicalisation. The insights and analysis provided in this volume will be invaluable for those involved in developing and implementing effective strategies to prevent the spread of extremist ideologies and promote a more peaceful and secure world.

Dr V S Sripal is Senior Lecturer in African Centre of Strategic Studies. His main research interests are identity politics, ethnic conflict, and terrorism and counter-terrorism.
